RESEARCH & DESIGN

Application Form

Research & Design
Credit value: 4

(Grade 11, University Preparation)
Credits: SPH3U, MCR3U, TDJ3M, ICS3U

This full-day interdisciplinary program teaches students the principles of research, design, prototyping, and analysis through the topics of projectile motion, structural support systems, power generation, and acoustic systems. Students will be taught the concepts from grade 11 Physics, grade 11 Math, and grade 11 Tech Design, and grade 11 Computer Science and apply them in a variety of individual and team projects that tackle both real-world and simulated problems.

Students interested in fields such as architecture, biomechanics, engineering, computer programming, aerospace, aviation, acoustics, robotics, structure, or have a general interest in how and why things work are encouraged to consider applying for this program.

The number of students who can be enrolled in this course is limited. For this reason, past experience, skills, and school involvement will be used in determining which students will be selected if there are more applicant than spaces.

Please fill in both sides of this application form as completely as possible and return it to the Nantyr Shores Guidance Department or Mr. Taylor as soon as possible.
